STEVE FINDS GOLD AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW

By Jacob

Mr Steve Baines, a successful, Pisciculture competitor, is promoting his new book, 'I Believe in Rainbows' at the Ekka this year.

Mr Baines has been a competitor for 36 years, a steward for 24 years and has received a long service badge for 21 years of stewarding.

“The most interesting thing is leading the grand parade, in the arena, with a fish,” he said.

He was also the most successful competitor in the Pisciculture Competition this year. He won four firsts, four seconds, two thirds, champion and best display of the whole show.

“They were for planted aquarium, aquascaped aquarium, red claw crayfish, angel fish and all other types of fish.” he said.

Before he became a writer, Mr Baines used to be a singer. He hopes his story about a rainbow fish, Rodney Rainbow and friends, will help teach kids the importance of Australia’s freshwater fish.

‘I Believe in Rainbows’ is Steve’s first book. The book’s official launch was on Monday and it can be found on a stand in the Pisciculture Section.
