A WHEELIE HARD SPORT

By Anwen

The Aussie FMX team are performing aerial acrobatics in the Main Arena twice daily.

There is a lunch time show, and a segment in the EkkaNITES program.

Aussie FMX is a group of freestyle motocross riders who got together in the 1990s and are now popular worldwide with their terrifying stunts which include back-flips and forward-flips.

Safety is important and before each show they check the take-off ramp, the landing ramp, and the alignment so they don't land crooked.

Zac Mackenzie, one of the team, has been training most of his life.

"We've been all around Australia; from Cairns all the way down to Adelaide," Zac said. "We've even been to China."
