THE WRITE TYPE OF CAMP

By Lucy S and Ava

A group of year six students from State Schools throughout Queensland have been selected to be part of Show Camp 2019.

"Show Camp is an exciting experience for kids to come and spend a week at the Ekka, learn what the Ekka is all about and then write news stories about the things they see and the people they meet," Keith Enchelmaier, the Show Camp Manager, said.

To be eligible for selection, the Show Campers had to complete an online course on news-writing and submit four assignments.

More than 600 students enrolled in the course, but only 20 were selected to attend the Camp.

Show Camp is enjoyed by both the students and the teachers. It provides an opportunity for new friendships.

"It just brings people together, that you would never know you would be friends with," one of the Campers said.

"I love Show Camp because we get to work with great students who are always enthusiastic and eager to learn more about what's going on at the Ekka, and then share it," Mark Devaney, a teacher at Show Camp, said.
